Crops for Hunger Growing Project: Deep Run East Mennonite Church (deepruneast.org) has partnered with Growing Hope Globally (growinghopeglobally.org) to implement an agricultural growing project on the church's 40 acres of tillable land as a means of sharing our abundant crops with people less fortunate.

For the last 20 years, Growing Hope Globally has supported programs around the world to provide education for sustainable agriculture for their specific regions and provide resources to implement the programs.

Beginning in the 2020 growing season, the church and community members planted soybeans to harvest and sell with the proceeds going to a Growing Hope Globally-sponsored program in Honduras 'Orocuina and Liure' which is being implemented by a Mennonite Central Committee (mcc.org) team. This ministry will help people around the world that are hungry and don't have the security of food like we do multiple times each day.

How You Can Help: The Crops for Hunger ministry is possible only because of the generous donations of money, time, farming equipment and materials from our community. All proceeds from your purchase of our sweet corn today go directly to help fund the ministry. We would greatly appreciate your continued support to meet our goal of raising crops to fund Growing Hope Globally's many sustainable agricultural projects – and improve the food security for as many hungry people as possible.
